Did You Know?

What makes propane so exceptional? Well, for starters, propane is one of the nation's most versatile sources of energy and supplies 3 to 4 percent of our total energy needs. Nearly 11 billion gallons of propane are consumed annually in the U.S. by more than 50 million Americans who use propane every day in their homes, on farms, for vehicles, and even for recreation.

People trust and rely on propane for heating and cooling their homes, heating water, cooking, refrigeration, drying clothes, barbecuing, lighting, and fueling their gas fireplaces. This exceptional fuel is available anywhere in the U.S. and burns cleanly, so it's environmentally friendly.
